Inland Empire Social Recreation Services & Supports: Intellectual & Developmental Communities

2023/24

Coachella Valley, Riverside &
San Bernardino Counties

IEAutism.org

In 2022 Regional Centers were again allowed to coordinate and fund social recreation for regional center clients. Social recreation is defined as any opportunity that will allow IRC clients access to public recreational activities to develop and enhance meaningful interpersonal relationships.

These activities:

1. Should allow opportunities for interaction.
2. Around and/or integrated with typically functioning peers.
3. Must be social: Examples of social recreation include group swim classes, horseback riding, sports, monthly gym memberships, art classes, special events like dances, Special Olympics, YMCA, and more.

Thank you to Inland Regional Center for providing a grant for the Autism Society Inland Empire to train social recreation providers and create this Resource Guide. We have curated a list of local social recreation programs that provide services to the developmental disability community.

To avoid disappointment due to schedule changes or space limitations, we encourage parents to call ahead to make sure the listed activity is available and meets you and your child's needs. Use other tools like YELP – “fun things to do with my kid,” talk to other parents, check City Parks and Recreation programs, local news, and social media to find fun things other parents do with their children.

Autism Society Inland Empire Options Policy

Why Social Recreation Is Important

Social recreation is crucial for special needs children for several reasons:

1. Promotes Fitness. Regular physical activity can help minimize deconditioning, keeping the child physically fit.
2. Enhances Overall Well-being: It contributes to the child's overall well-being, including their mental health.
3. Prevents Emotional Conditions: It can help prevent various emotional conditions like depression, stress, and anxiety.
4. Improves Self-esteem and Confidence: Participating in social recreational activities can improve self-esteem, social awareness, and self-confidence in children with special needs.<sup>3</sup>
5. Provides a Sense of Accomplishment: It provides a sense of accomplishment and teamwork while working on communication skills.
6. Opportunities to Express Creativity and Master New Skills: Recreation provides opportunities to express creativity, achieve and master new skills.

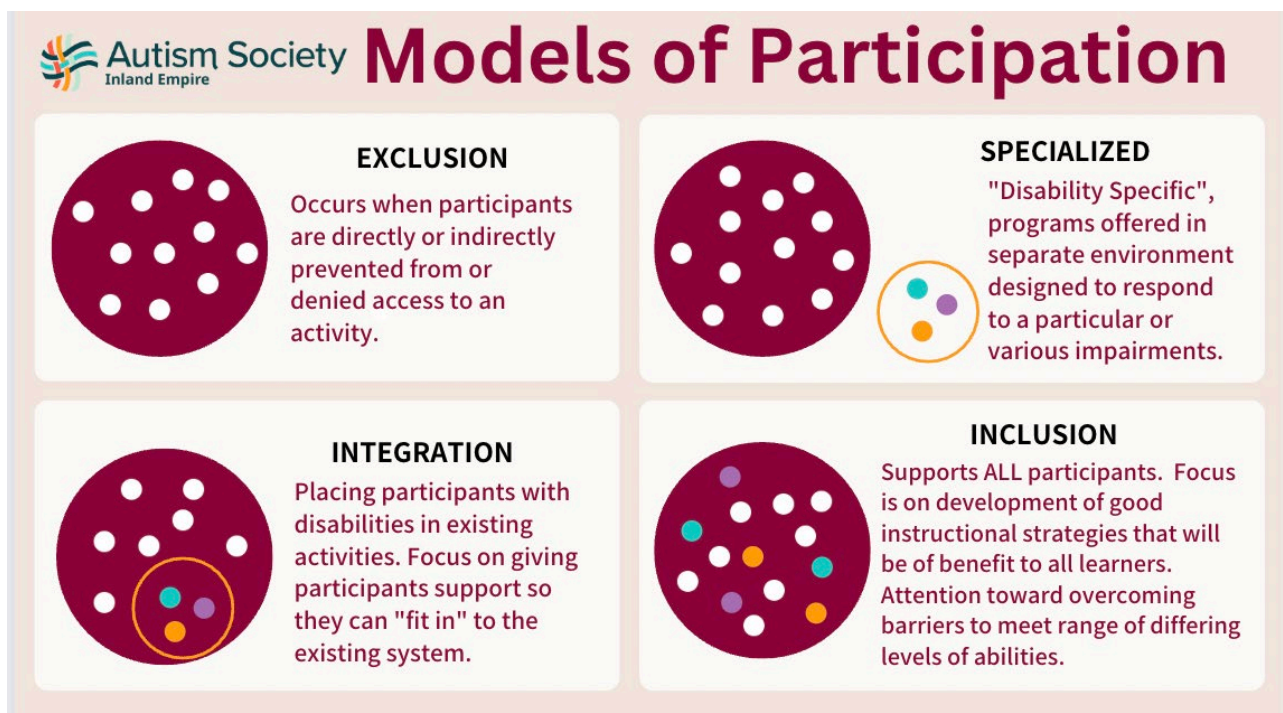

In summary, social recreation plays a vital role in the holistic development of special needs children by promoting their physical health, mental well-being, social skills, and academic performance.

Different Types of Recreation Programs

Children and adults with Autism need different levels of support depending on their age, their developmental level, and the environment. We are not suggesting one type of program is better than the other. We believe decisions should be made based on the wants and needs of the person with Autism and the family and consider the level of support needed.

This resource guide indicates whether the recreational program is specialized, integrated or inclusive.

- A specialized program is one where the services are provided in a separate environment, even if it is specially designed for a certain group of people. They may include special classes, early morning hours, or events such as "Autism Awareness Day" (For example, Special Olympics).
- An integrated program encourages students with disabilities to be part of the larger group but may not have modifications.
- An inclusive program ensures neurotypical or non-disabled peers (people of the same age range) are in the class or program. These programs have usually made changes and modifications in teaching methods, approaches, structures, strategies, and possibly the environment with a vision to provide all students in that age range with equitable and participatory learning experiences. These changes are suitable for all students and are sometimes called universal design. An example would be posting a schedule so students know what to expect.

What Types of Recreational Services Can Regional Center Pay For?

Inland Regional Center has three options to help clients access these services. You can use any or all these options:

1. Coaches to Support. Vendored agencies can staff a coach, or the Regional Center client or family can recommend a coach to be hired by the agency to facilitate and teach socialization skills put in the Individualized Service Plan. Parents should handle drop off and pick up. The coach staffing agency does not pay mileage.

- For minors - the coach can provide 4 hours a day, not to exceed 12 days a month. An optional 2-hour assessment can be provided.
- For adults - the coach can provide 3 hours a day, not to exceed 12 days per month.

2. Receive a Stipend of up to $100 a month. This service must be requested to your Regional Center caseworker and added to your Individualized Service Plan (ISP). Monthly stipends to offset the cost of social recreation programs. These costs will be reimbursed to families not to exceed $100 a month ($1200 a fiscal year). The stipend is paid through a Fiscal Management System (FMS) after receipts are submitted to receive the reimbursement. This cannot be given a lump sum - it must be done monthly. Any other costs are the responsibility of the parent or Regional Center client.

3. Choose an organization already vendored for these services with Inland Regional Center or submit the name of one who is interested.

As of May 2023, Inland Regional Center works with a few organizations to become vendored. If you have a social recreation company interested in becoming vendored, please have them contact the Inland Regional Center's Community Services Department.

If you have a social recreation company interested in becoming vendored, please have them contact the Inland Regional Center's Community Services Department.

How to Ask the Regional Center to Cover These Types of Services

1. Contact your Service Coordinator: Reach out to your Service Coordinator via email. In your email, request the Social Recreational Stipend FMS Referral packet.
2. Approval by Program Manager: After you have sent your request, the Program Manager must review and approve the packet and activity selection. This step is crucial as it ensures that the activities selected are suitable and beneficial for the consumers.
3. Participation in Activities: Once the packet has been approved, consumers can begin participating in social, and recreational activities. This is an opportunity for consumers to engage in various activities to enhance their social skills and overall well-being.
